SANGAMON COUNTY RECORDER LAUNCHES NEW WEB SITE

Upgrading and Adding New Functionality, Creating a Virtual Recorder's Office

Springfield, Illinois, August 10, 2009 — The Sangamon County Recorder's Office launched a new Web site expanding the information provided by the Office. The Web site's - www.sangamoncountyrecorder.com – enhanced look provides the user multiple links to frequently asked questions, recording forms and multiple programs provided by the Recorder's Office. As part of the enhancement of the site, the Recorder's Office also added a new tool - a copy request form - so individuals can request information via e-mail without having to call or come to the Office.

“The upgrades we've incorporated into the new Web site provide the general public more information about the Office along with the ability to make requests, sign-up for programs and search information,” said Sangamon County Recorder, Josh Langfelder. “These updates are a few examples of the significant steps we have taken to improve the public's understanding of the Office while providing services via the Internet.”

The Office looks to add a searchable database to the site within the year, allowing the public the ability to search for information about documents housed at the Office.

For more information on the website you can contact the Sangamon County Recorder's office at (217) 535-3151.
